New Document Management Solutions Listed on the Documation Website

Eastleigh, Hampshire UK, May 2010 – Documation has today unveiled nine additional solutions to its document management offerings, all of which are detailed on the Documation website. Joining the highly successful Invoice Management Solution (IMS) are nine further document management services, all built upon the Documation Enable platform.

Although these solutions have never been marketed through their website, Documation has been providing them for 19 years to clients such as Oxford University Press (OUP), Marks & Spencer, Carillion and TRW. The solutions, which are described on their website, now reflect Documation’s full product offering.

Steve Pittaway, Documation’s Commercial Manager, explains the decision to expand Documation’s online product offering: “Our website has previously only promoted our Invoice Management Solution. However, for the last two decades we have been supplying our customers with a wide range of document management solutions. We felt it was time to make our stakeholders aware of the full capabilities of the Documation Enable platform – Enable is an extremely powerful solution, allowing companies to manage any type of document through incorporation of intelligent workflow”
